THE SWARTHOUT TRIAL.

The circuit court of Whiteside county convened at nine o'clock Monday morning and the evidence having all been given to the jury, the arguments in the Swarthout case were at once taken up.

The counsel for the prisoner had prepared themselves for a grand victory in the dying statement of John Swarthout, which had been studiously concealed up to the time when it was presented to the court on Saturday. But ably as the line of defense had been conducted, it was no surprise to the prosecution, who showed that being without witness or attestation it could not be given to the jury. The judge had decided that such portions of the confession as affected the question of the prisoner's guilt or innocense was incompetent, but admitted that portion of the confession in which John Swarthout admits his own guilt. The portion already given to our readers constituted about one-third of the entire paper. The balance is wisely withheld by the judge from publication at present, as its publicity might reach the ears of the jurors and unfairly influence their decision. During the reading of that portion presented to the jury, there was no relaxation on the part of the prisoner. His wife and her sister set on either side of him; the former was greatly agitated and was unable to repress her sobs; upon the conclusion of the reading she left the court room.

The argument was opened Monday morning by H. C. Ward, assistant for the prosecution, who carefully went over the evidence, making clear points that were somewhat obscure during the examination of witnesses. His argument, which was strong and well sustained, was mainly directed in showing that a conspiracy existed between the two brothers for the murder of their father. He closed his remarks at two o'clock yesterday afternoon.

F. D. Ramsay, assistant counsel for the defense followed in a speech which occupied the balance of the afternoon, in which he skillfully combatted the theory of a conspiracy, and left some doubts in the minds of the spectators, if not in the jury, as to the guilt of the prisoner. He argued that nothing had been adduced to show Ernest's complicity in the crime. That all he had done was what the law recognized that a brother may do, endeavored to screen his brother after he had come to a knowledge of the commission of the crime. While he may have gone so far as to be in a measure guilty of wrong morally, still the law in its regard to the frailties and affections of human nature says that he is not legally guilty unless he was a principal in the killing of his father. The attorney here drew a parallel between the case of Ernest Swarthout and Effie Deans, Sir Walter Scott's heroine of Midlothian; at which point tears rolled down the cheeks of the prisoner. Good use was make of that portion of John's statement which fixed on himself the guilt of his father's murder, which the attorney argued was the premeditated act of a man, whom physical disease had rendered morbid. Every circumstance of the night of the murder and subsequent day's discovery of the remains was gone over skilfully, with a view to show that a conspiracy that would have involved Ernest, must have included the entire family. At the conclusion of his appeal the court adjourned till Tuesday morning.

It is hardly probable that the death penalty will be passed upon the prisoner, though it seems to be the concensus of opinion that he will receive a term in the penitentiary. Much sympathy is accorded the prisoner's wife. She is young to have such a heavy load thrust upon her. Her fidelity has been unwavering, and since the jailment she has spent much of her time in her husband's cell.

One of the jurors received a letter during the trial that one of his children was passing under a critical surgical operation. Later reports were encouraging

An Omen of Good Luck.

That which we now relate either argues coming good luck for F. K. Orvis, of the Nachusa house, or it indicates that assistant city Marshal John Gaffney is on to his job; or both. That John in his quiet way is doing some good detective work, goes without contradiction. Many years ago Mr. Orvis lost a ring which was a wedding present and long since, as a matter of course, gave up all hope of ever again seeing that valued keepsake of a most happy event.

A few weeks since the neighborhood boys broke into his vacant residence down on South Galena avenue and carried therefrom many valuable books, clothing, pictures, articles of virtu, and many things which may never be missed. Policemen Gaffney worked the case up and finally discovered the young rascals who committed the burglary, and among other articles recovered and returned to Mr. Orvis was his wedding ring, which one of the boys had found on the floor of the attic, where the owner had lost it many years since. We consider it one of the marvelously strange incidents which now and then happen, illustrating that truth is stranger than fiction.

Relief in Death.

Edwin Cumins, brother of Theron Cumins, died at Elgin, yesterday, and was brought to Dixon on the noon train today and at once conveyed to his former home in Grand Detour, where the funeral was conducted by Rev. H. C. Granger, rector of St. Lukes church of this city.

In boyhood the deceased met with an accident which caused injury to the brain, from which he never recovered, but passed through life an invalid, suffering such affliction as men rarely endure. He was always kindly cared for by his brother, of this city, every want being carefully looked after with a love and thoughtfulness that is only accredited to a mother.

Death, which comes so often with relentless hand, in this instance does not appear in a cruel aspect, but really has a mixture of relieving kindness in its surroundings. "He giveth His beloved sleep," has a deep meaning as applied to this death.

"Have you any houses to rent?"
"Yes, lots of them."
"At what prices?"
"From $6 to $12 per month,"

TANGLED A TRIFLE

The Way Speculation Leaves the Hawaiian Question.

HOW IT LOOKS TO THE WISEACRES

Reasoning From Inference Uncle Sam Lands in a Cavity, It Would Seem—Position the Annexers Will Take and Stick To—Experts Tussle With a Cipher Dispatch for Honolulu—Secretary Gresham Says Nothing, but His Friends Talk.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—It is current on the best authority that both Secretaries Morton and Hoke Smith have tendered their resignations to President Cleveland as members of his cabinet. The reasons assigned were the radical and emphatic disagreement of these two gentlemen with President Cleveland's Hawaiian policy.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—Secretary Gresham had nothing to say about the news from Hawaii. Neither has he anything to add to his letter published last Saturday. He does not expect to say anything till after the arrival of the next steamer from Hawaii. That steamer is due on Thursday and will, it is believed, bring information that the queen has been restored. If the occasion then seems to require another letter from Secretary Gresham, the letter will be forthcoming. Neither has the secretary anything to say of the letter of ex-Minister Stevens, published yesterday, and which defends Stevens' course. There is little new in the letter, but the ex-minister takes direct issue with the secretary as to matters of fact in several cases, the most important of which is the charge that Stevens acted as part of a conspiracy to overthrow the queen. Stevens says he did not recognize the new government until all the other great nations had done so and when it was the only government on the islands.

Cipher Dispatch from Hawaii.

Friends of the secretary say that Stevens is tempting fate in going into the controversy; that Gresham has not published Blount's letter yet, which is severer, it is said, than Gresham's. The state department has news of its own by the steamer China. It is written in the navy department cipher. Experts were set to work upon the dispatch in the afternoon and labored over it for several hours. After securing the substance of this official communication Secretary Gresham took a copy of it out to Woodley for a conference over the matter with President Cleveland. Nothing was given out from the state department during the afternoon as to the substance of the dispatch.

Hopes of the Annexers.

F. P. Hastings, secretary of the Hawaiian legation, was shown the dispatch from San Francisco containing the news of Minister Willis' arrival in Honolulu and his appointment to present his credentials to President Dole. This news was obviously a great relief to the minds of the members of the legation. They declined to talk about the matter, but the satisfaction expressed at the presentation by Minister Willis of his credentials to President Dole suggested that they might have feared that the minister would be found to have been accredited to the queen. The plan of the Hawaiian representatives evidently is to stand rigidly on the rights they have acquired by the recognition of their government. Minister Thurston touched the marrow of their hopes when he said in Chicago that any attempt to overturn the present government by a foreign power would be an act of war.

Laying Plans for a Fight in Congress.

An act of war requires the consent or declaration of congress. Congress will undoubtedly take up the subject of Hawaii in some way immediately upon assembling in December. The fight, it is said, will be made on the administration policy on this line—that it has declared war without the consent of congress and has therein done an unlawful act. What effect it would have on this proposed policy if the present government should peacefully yield to the persuasions of the American minister is also discussed. The question involved is whether so peaceable a proceeding could be regarded as an act of war. It is argued that it would be an act of aggression on a sovereign power none the less because the power peacefully yielded to the threat of so overwhelmingly superior a force.

The Point That Puzzles Them All.

It still remains an unanswerable problem to those of diplomatic experience how the American minister, accredited to the Hawaiian government, can immediately upon presenting his credentials set about to destroy that government. This gives rise to many surmises, such as that the real policy pursued by the state department has not hitherto been announced at all, but that Secretary Gresham's report to the president was simply designed to give opportunity to read the public sentiment on the subject. It is not at all probable that this is true. There is a shrewd surmise in Washington that the restoration of Queen Lilioukalani to the throne may not be followed by the entire withdrawal of the influence of the United States, but that with the work of the last administration once undone a protectorate may be established over the monarchy.

THURSTON AT THE CAPITAL.

He Has Nothing to Say On the Subject of Recent Developments.

L. A. Thurston, the minister of the present government in Hawaii to the United States, has returned to this city. He left this city some weeks ago to take charge of the Hawaiian exhibit at the World's fair. Thurston was seen by a representative of the Associated Press soon after his arrival. He was asked if he had anything to say in regard to the Hawaiian situation or Secretary Gresham's report on it to President Cleveland, and replied that he had no information not already possessed by the press and did not care to discuss the matter at present. He said also that he had not perfected his plans yet.

A naval officer who is not in favor of annexation says: "One of the most absurd claims made in behalf of the insurgents is that the best interest of humanity will be damaged by allowing the queen to go back to her throne. No one who has been at the Hawaiian islands as much as I have will listen to such talk. The fact is that the average morality of the native population is quite as good as the average among the imported elements. The whole government there is a good deal of an opera bouffe affair, but the natives show up as well as any of the other characters in it.

"I knew the queen very well when she was plain Lydia Dominis, wife of John Dominis, who was of New England origin and a real Yankee. He and his wife used to live with old Mme. Dominis, his mother, who kept a very good boarding-house, where I have often stayed, Kalakaua, who afterward became king, was their chief of police, and Mott Smith, the Hawaiian minister to the United States at the time of the revolt, was in those days a simple apothecary, of whom I have bought soap and quinine and tooth brushes over and over again."

A telegram from San Francisco says: "At the Hawaiian consulate in this city no word was received by the steamship China which would throw further light on the situation at the islands. Consul Wilder stated to a reporter that in case the administration should ask the provisionals to step down and out the answer would undoubtedly be that the request could not be granted. If the use of force should be threatened the provisional government could have but one course to pursue. Resistance to the power of the United States would be useless."

COMMISSIONER LORRIN A. THURSTON.

Another telegram from San Francisco gives the following extract from the Honolulu Commercial Advertiser, a copy of which was brought on the China with her other news of the arrival of Willis:

"A return to the old form of government is out of the question, and it is generally conceded that should the monarchy be restored by some unexpected and improbable means it could not last. The old historical axiom that revolutions cannot go backward could not be violated in the case of Hawaii without grave and serious consequences. This, however, is not expected. The conservative interests of the people who really represent the Hawaiian islands and own 70 per cent. of the business interests of the country would very likely refuse their consent to such a course."

HIS PLAY COST TWELVE LIVES.

Cause of the Recent Fatality on the Rock Island at Eggleston.

CHICAGO, Nov. 14.—One more is to be added to the list of dead as the result of the collision on the Rock Island at Eggleston—Miss Kate Snow, who has just died at the hospital from wounds received in that disaster. This makes twelve dead, and all because a boy played with a fusee and then threw it away. The boy was only 12, and seeing the fusee burning on the track he picked it up and played with it a moment, and then threw it away and thought no more of it.

He was arrested, but the justice let him off with a reprimand. When the suburban train found that it was losing time, knowing that the express was coming along behind, the rear brakeman, in accordance with the company's rules, lit a fusee and dropped it on the track from the rear platform of the last car. These fusees burn brightly for about ten minutes and are a warning to trains using the same rails that there is a delayed train ahead and they must stop. Had the boy let it alone there would have been no accident.

LEASES COST TOO MUCH.

Northern Pacific Loses Nearly Two Million Dollars That Way.

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 14.—Judge Jenkins has made an order in the United States circuit court authorizing the receivers of the Northern Pacific railroad to throw up their leases made by the Northern Pacific with twenty-two branch lines, and enter into contract for the same traffic arrangements. This is done to enable the receivers to avoid paying the interest on the bonds and the sinking fund charges, which they are required to do under the leaseholds. The branch lines have not paid enough to pay the interest, and it has not been paid.

The Northern Pacific lost $1,905,611.24 from the operation of these branch lines for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1893, and a considerable sum since that date. These $2,000,000, in round numbers, represent the deficit and operating expenses. The branch lines have no equipment or rolling stock to operate them separately and a majority of the capital stock is owned by the Northern Pacific.

The Vote in Ohio.

COLUMBUS, Nov. 14.—Based on full official returns from all except eight counties and the pluralities of the Republican and Democratic parties in the eight, the Prohibition vote in sixty-four and the Populist vote in sixty-six counties the following totals are figured out: McKinley, 432,900; Neal, 352,000; Macklin, Pro., 4,600; Bracken, Pop., 16,300; total, 822,900. McKinley's vote was 16,800 over Harrison's in 1888, and 27,700 over it in 1892. The Prohibitionists lost 4,000 and the Populists gained 1,400.

Cut Each Other to Pieces.

PITTSBURG, Nov. 14.—William Haught and Allen Stevenson, both Americans, got into an altercation at Belle Vernon on Saturday night over the relative merits of glass-blowing in different countries. The men came to blows, but were separated by friends. Later they met on the street with knives and a savage fight resulted. They cut and hacked each other in a merciless manner and when they were finally parted, blood was pouring from wounds all over their bodies. Both men will die.

A Dastard Who Should Hang.

CADDO, I. T., Nov. 14.—Dave Bohannon, who killed Ben Foreman at South McAlester last September and has been an outlaw, killed Deputy United States Marshal Folsom, his cousin, who had a warrant for him for the murder of Foreman, near Durant, by slipping up behind Folsom and shooting him down without warning. Bohannon escaped.

Resignation of a Railway Man.

SPRINGFIELD, Ills., Nov. 14.—Cullen M. Stanton, for eighteen years superintendent of the Illinois division of the Ohio and Mississippi railroad, has resigned to take effect Dec. 1.

SITUATION AT RIO.

Artillery Duels a Frequent and Noisy Entertainment.

GUNNERS IMPROVING BY PRACTICE

But Still Very Little Damage Done—Promise of an ex-Governor to the Rebels—Peixoto Making a Balloon That Is to Drop Dynamite Down on Mello's Warships and Blow Them Sky High—Recall of Admiral Stanton.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—The Herald's special from Rio Janeiro says: The British consul here has advised the shipping interests of the city that all goods now in the harbor of Rio, either on ships or lighters, will hereafter be protected by the commanders of foreign warships in the bay. Every two or three days, for some time past, there has been an artillery duel between the loyal and the rebel forts in which the ships of Mello's squadron rarely join. Fort Villegaigne, which took up Mello's cause some time after the revolt began, has suffered severely in the duels so far as its light barracks buildings are concerned, but the fort proper is uninjured and the bomb-proof quarters for the men are still intact. Not a gun has been dismounted.

Revolutionists Gain a Foothold.

A lad who has come ashore from the fort says the garrison is well and confident of success. They have had only fifteen men killed since the fighting began, and three of these deaths were caused by the bursting of one of their own guns. Three of Peixoto's forts are now provided with six or seven guns to Villegaigne's one, and the artillerymen have improved greatly in gunnery since the revolution began. One big shell was seen the other day to strike squarely upon the parapet of Fort Page, and it must have done considerable damage. These artillery duels usually begin about 5:30 o'clock in the afternoon and close about 7:30. The revolutionists have gained a foothold on land in the suburb of Saratta and have held it in spite of considerable skirmishing.

Prize Offered to Mello's Men.

Their white flag can be seen from Rio at several points. One of Piexoto's land batteries has been silenced also. An ex-governor of the state of Rio Janiero has promised that if Mello's men succeed in wresting the possession of Nictheroy from the loyal troops he will furnish the rebels with a large quantity of arms and ammunition with which to equip a land force. He has not sufficient confidence in their ability to win as long as they confine themselves to operating afloat to lead him to risk anything on them just now.

Dynamite from a Balloon.

It is reported that Peixoto has now nearly ready his balloon, work on which has been proceeding some time, from which he expects to be able to drop a charge of dynamite upon Admiral Mello's flagship, the Aquidaban. This balloon experiment will be attended with no slight risk to the foreign vessels in the harbor, and their commanders do not feel at all comfortable over the idea of having a dynamite-laden balloon floating over their ships with Mello's sharpshooters firing at it in an endeavor to bring it down anywhere but upon their own heads.

Regret at Stanton's Recall.

The recall of the American admiral has caused general regret in Rio. Admiral Stanton was well liked by his men, and he in return was deeply interested in their welfare. It is generally felt that his fault, if any, was trifling and at most only a question of courtesy. Brazil's government complained to the authorities in Washington without the knowledge, it is said, of the American minister in Rio, and he knew nothing of the affair until the order came for Rear Admiral Stanton's recall.

Thought to Have Acted Hastily.

The opinion is freely expressed in Rio that the American government acted hastily in the matter and if it had investigated all the circumstances the result might have been different. There is a movement on foot among Brazilians to memorialize the American government on the subject, but Minister Thompson says he will have nothing to do with it.

DECLARED FOR IMPERIALISM.

A Decision That Helps the Rebel Cause—Gone to Hunt a Cruiser.

LONDON, Nov. 14.—The Times advices from Rio de Janeiro say: A conference was held last week between the insurgent leaders which has changed the situation of the much discussed question of the restoration of the empire. The conference resulted in a decision to shortly hoist the imperial flag. This decision created a good impression. Admiral Gama, the chief of the naval college and who is the ablest admiral in Brazil, hitherto maintained a neutral position, but he has now openly joined the insurgents. He carries with him the sympathy of many adherents in the army and navy who belong to leading families. A consequence of this step is a gain to the insurgents of the islands of Cobras and Inchadas.

Admiral de Gama has taken command of the operations before Rio Janeiro. A recruiting commission which was sent by the government into the state of Minas has returned without men. The Aquidaban has proceeded to sea to search for the new government cruiser Aurora. The present situation, if prolonged, threatens disaster to the commercial interests of the country. A majority of the business community considers that the recognition of the insurgents as belligerents would be the speediest method of ending the war.

Perils of the Folding Bed.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 14.—C. H. Van, an advertising solicitor, and his wife retired in a folding bed. The bed by some movement began to close up. Mrs. Van started to leap out, but was caught and badly bruised. Her husband was crushed so badly that he will be a cripple for life. His spinal cord was strained and he is paralyzed in the lower extremities. It is thought he will die.

Reduced Rates for Freight.

CHICAGO, Nov. 14.—The Chicago and Eastern Illinois road has announced a rate on provisions from Chicago to all points in southeastern territory of 7 cents, a cut of 5 cents. The road has also announced a reduced rate on pig iron from $1 60 to $1.40.

Mob "Vengeance" Misses Its Mark.

LOUISVILLE, Nov. 14.—A special from Bardstown to The Evening Post says: It has been learned that Evans' wife, mother and child have been found. They were spending the night with a friend when the explosion occurred.

COSTLY BLAZE AT MEMPHIS.

Loss of $185,000 by Fire—One Man Burned to Death.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 14.—What promised to be one of the most destructive fires of late years was checked by the fire department after a heroic fight with the following losses: Schmatzreid Stove company, building and stock, total loss, $70,000; insured, $50,000. Lemon & Gale, wholesale dry goods, stock, $108,000; building, $7,000; insured for $100,000.

The Young Men's Christian association had rooms in the Schmatzreid building and found themselves hemmed in by the fire. Several jumped from the third story and were seriously and perhaps fatally hurt. A man named Thomas H. Bond was burned to death and the following injured by jumping: Charles R. White, arm broken and internal injuries; E. E. Board, arm broken and severe bruises; Fred Hoke, wrists and arms hurt; Secretary Smith, leg broken, internal injuries, may die.

GOV. ALTGELD ON ANARCHY.

He Says the Only Anarchy in Illinois Is Newspaper Talk.

SPRINGFIELD, Nov. 14.—Governor Altgeld, asked if it was true that one of the conditions of the pardon of Fielden, Neebe and Schwab was they should make no anarchistic speeches in the future, replied: "In granting the pardon I did so because I thought the men not guilty of the crime for which they were sentenced and I placed no condition upon the pardons. You may say that there are no anarchists in the entire state of Illinois—not one. If the newspapers would stop talking anarchy the matter would never be again heard of. That laboring men have the right to their own views on all matters and are entitled to express them is conceded by all citizens."

DIPLOMATIC ASPECT APPEARS.

Russian Minister Asks the Arrest of the Russian Refugees at 'Frisco.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—The Russian minister at Washington has intervened in the matter of the ten escaped Russian convicts who were recently picked up in the Pacific ocean and landed at San Francisco. The minister asked that the men be arrested, presumably for the purpose of ascertaining whether they are criminal offenders escaped from Siberia.

The treasury department promptly acted on the request and ordered the arrest of the men, and it has received word that this has been accomplished and that the men are in jail. The commissioner of immigration at San Francisco has been given instructions to wire the facts in the case, including the affidavits of the men, to the department, pending the receipt of which further action will be postponed.

A Maligrant Old Miscreant.

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 14.—Michael Saueressig, 82 years old, lived with a married daughter and did not get along with her children, one of whom is at present sick with an eruption. The mother uses a salve for the complaint, and the old man was discovered mixing strychnine with the medicine. During the ensuing excitement he disappeared, and was subsequently found hanging in the basement of the house. He was cut down before life was extinct, and will probably be sent to the county asylum as soon as he recovers from the shock.

Presbyterian Minister Deposed.

CHICAGO, Nov. 14.—Dr. W. W. Totheroh, of the Hyde Park Presbyterian clergy, charged with sustaining improper relations with a Mrs. Hamilton, appeared before Chicago presbytery and conducted his own defense. After six hours discussion the presbytery deposed Totheroh and suspended him from the ministry in the church. Both before and after the result Totheroh denied that he was guilty of the offense, although he had previously signed a confession which he now repudiates, claiming that it was obtained from him under duress.

Making War on Mrs. Lease.

TOPEKA, Kas., Nov. 14.—Secretary of State Osborn, Bank Commissioner Bridenthal, Commissioner Snider, Advocate General Hiver and other Populist leaders have made a demand upon Governor Lewelling for the removal of Mrs. Lease from the presidency of the state board of charity on account of the interview in which she charged the state administration with being corrupt. They allege further that Mrs. Lease has conspired with the Republican members of the board and helped their schemes.

A Disaster in Japan.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 14.—Advices from Yokohama state that a severe storm swept over the southern part of Japan on Oct. 18, lasting several days. In Okayama, where the floods wrought the most destruction, 141 persons are known to have perished and 100 more are missing; 1,346 houses were washed away. From other points 448 persons are reported killed, 475 ships and boats wrecked and great damage done to farming lands.

Will Celebrate a Schoolhouse

GUTHRIE, O. T., Nov. 14.—A very unique celebration is announced at Ponca, Oklahoma, on Nov. 16. Ponca is one of the new towns on the Cherokee Strip, located on the Santa Fe just north of the Ponca Indian reservation. They have built the first schoolhouse on the Strip and propose to dedicate it on that date with addresses by Governor Renfrew and a number of other prominent men.

Trying Protectives for Conspiracy.

BUFFALO, Nov. 14.—Seventy-five members of the American Protective association, the anti-Rome organization, will be presented to the next grand jury, because they are banded together to vote against Roman Catholics for office. The case is a test one to find if such societies are criminal conspiracies, as tending to incite riot. On the list are attorneys, merchants and even preachers.

Will Not Cost Us Very Much.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—Sir Julian Pauncefote, British ambassador, has entered upon a negotiation with Secretary Gresham for the settlement of claims for the British sealers seized in Behring sea previous to the modus vivendi of 1891. It is said that the amount of indemnity claimed by the Canadian government will not exceed $500,000.

Chicago Employe Confesses Theft.

CHICAGO, Nov. 14.—John Connors, for seven years custodian of stolen property for the police department of Chicago and with an office in the city hall, is a self-confessed embezzler of the funds entrusted to his charge, the amount of his stealings, according to his own statement, being between $3,500 and $4,200. He has been bounced.

MRS. LANDER AND EDWIN BOOTH.

An Anecdote of Their First Appearance Together on the Stage.

Personal anecdotes are always interesting. One is told by Mrs. General Lander of Washington, one of the most original and attractive women of the capital.

Formerly Mrs. Lander was an actress known as Jean Davenport, and once when playing "Camille" in California she was supported by Edwin Booth in the role of Armand. Booth had not reached the age of 21 at the time, and Mrs. Lander was somewhat annoyed that she was obliged to have so young a "leading man." Her annoyance, however disappeared the first evening they played in public.

Booth had proved keen and bright, anxious to learn and to please the star actress. At rehearsal he said:

"Miss Davenport, how shall I kneel in the death scene?"

"Be sure to kneel before me, so that I can look down upon you," was the reply.

The story of the performance should be told in Mrs. Lander's own words.

"The evening came. The opera house was packed. My boy, to the astonishment of all, played with the very soul of genius. He fairly trembled with emotion. He forgot all my careful directions and acted his part with the self forgetfulness and abandon of an old actor whose intuitive knowledge is sufficient to him. I came near forgetting myself in the admiration I felt for my lover—my boy lover. The death scene came, and Armand was missing. I looked behind me, and there, instead of kneeling at my feet with his head before me, he had bowed himself in anguish on the back of my low couch. There was no time to move, to speak or change a word or a position. I simply turned so I could look at him. His stricken attitude was pitiful. Never had I seen grief so naturally portrayed. I was carried out of myself. I stretched my arms toward his bowed head, and the house rose with applause. He lifted his face to mine, and I moaned aloud from real pity and pain."—New York Sun.

It Happens That Way.

"I hear you have been moving?" she said as she found herself in the same seat with an acquaintance on a Michigan avenue car.

"Yes. We are down on Twelfth street now."

"And do you like the new place?"

"Quite well, but the family next door is just awful. There's about a million young uns, and the woman scolds, and the man gets drunk, and my husband declares he'll have the whole lot arrested."

"It's too bad you get alongside of such people. What did you say your number was?"

"No. —."

"Why, my sister lives at No. —, right beside you! You must have reference to her!"

"Dear me, but"——

"I don't understand"——

"Excuse me, but I have to get off here. Do come down and see me. We never were so pleasantly situated. It is one of the nicest neighborhoods in all Detroit, and I'm almost lonesome to hear a child crying."—Detroit Free Press.

A Misunderstanding.

Old Mike Shays was arrested and brought into the Sixth precinct station house the other night for the fifteenth consecutive time in a fortnight.

"What is your name?" asked the sergeant, merely by way of formality.

But Mike was above the sphere of the commonplace, and drawing himself up proudly replied: "My name is Norval. On the Grampian hills my father feeds his flocks, a frugal swain!"

"What's that about swine?" inquired the sergeant sternly.

"Oh, he didn't mean anything personal," said the station keeper deprecatingly. "That's just Marc Antony's address to the Romans."—Washington Post.

Building and Loan

The total amount of money loaned by the North and South amounts to but 4¾ per cent. of the appraised value of the securities held in the vaults of the Association to secure the payment of these loans. This per centage being on the loans at the time they were made, which have since been reduced by monthly payments, would make the present amount loaned below 40 per cent. of the actual cash value of the property pledged as security for the payment of same. With security of this kind, what has an investor to fear, even though there be a depression of business and shrinkage of values. The shrinkage will have to be great indeed before it can impair the original capital invested in loans of this kind.

THE MASKED THUG

AN ATTEMT TO HOLD UP A TRAIN

Resisted by a Brakeman, Who Receives a Fatal Wound in the Stomach—The Crime Committed on the Peoria, Decatur and Evansville Road Near Decatur, Ills.—The Would-be Robbers Get Away Safely, but Without Any Swag.

DECATUR, Ills., Nov. 14.—An attempt was made last night to hold up the Peoria, Decatur and Evansville passenger train due here at 10 p. m. Three men masked with handkerchiefs got on at the Lincoln coal shaft when the train pulled out. They started through the combination car to the express part. Brakeman George Trot and some passengers tried to stop them. Three shots were fired by the robbers and one hit the brakeman in the stomach. He is expected to die. Six miles from Lincoln the men presented revolvers at some of the passengers in the coach and demanded money. The conductor of the train pulled the bell cord and the train was soon stopped.

The Shooting of Brakeman Trot.

Brakeman George Trot made a brave struggle with the robbers, endeavoring to knock one of them down and overpower him. He succeeded in getting the better of one, but another shot him, as stated above, and it is not thought he can live. The robbers then held the other people in the car in check with their revolvers until the train was near Mount Pulaski. Then one of them jumped off the train, which was running about twenty-five miles per hour. He had compelled the engineer to start again after the train had stopped. The others got off at Pulaski and nothing has been heard of them. They did not succeed in getting any money or valuables from the passengers.

Conductor Richmond's Statement.

Conductor Chris Richmond said: "As I was taking tickets coming out of Lincoln, on the platform between the combination car and the ladies' car I saw a man looking in at the window. He turned around and threw a gun in my face and ordered me to hold up my hands. I ran back and told the express messenger that we were being held up. I cut the bell cord and Messenger Henry McManus put out the lights and barred the door. Brakeman Trot came and asked for my gun, saying he would go out and get them. I did not have a gun and he took my billy and started out. Just at the door the robber shot through the door and the bullet went through Trott's stomach. He fell back and said: "I am shot through and done for."

Messenger Was a Bad Shot.

"Just as I cut the bell cord I felt it pulled, but it did not stop the engine and we kept going. One man jumped off while we were going at full speed; another rode into Mount Pulaski and the messenger shot at him in the station. He got away. I did not see when the third man left. Trott will die."

Ernest Chester, who lives at Oakland, was beating his way on the trucks. He has been arrested as a suspicious character.

WANTED TO HANG THE PRISONERS.

An Incident Not at All Startling in Our Era of Outlawry.

LOUISVILLE, Nov. 14.—A special from Mount Vernon, Ky., says: The train-wreckers, James Bellew and Matthew Collins, who robbed mail train No. 26 a few nights ago, were taken from the London jail by United States deputy marshals and started for Covington. When the train reached the spot where the wreck took place—this side of Altamont—it stopped. The trainmen, in company with citizens and others, went into the car and demanded the prisoners. The marshals vehemently denied that the prisoners were Collins and Bellew, but said they were some moonshiners whom they were taking to Covington for trial. The trainmen, including Engineer Soden and his fireman, who went down in the wreck were among the men who desired vengeance on their would-be murderers.

The engineer jerked a $100 bill from his pocket and exclaimed: "This is for any man who will tell me if the men are Bellew and Collins, the men, who wrecked my engine and threw me down a sixty foot fill." No one answered except the marshals who still denied the identity of the prisoners. James Lackey, who was taken to London as a witness, was taken up on the train and carried to this place, but could not be prevailed upon to give the prisoners away even on an offer of $50 or a threat with a revolver. The trainmen were badly disappointed when they were informed that their men were on the train and got off at Livingston Junction, the point for changing cars for Covington.

Got Off with About $1,000.

EL RENO, O. T., Nov. 14.—Four bandits walked into the store of William Hawler, at Arapiee, O. T., and presenting revolvers at the heads of the proprietor and clerks, demanded that they open the safe and give up the money it contained. The safe was opened and the bandits got away with about $1,000.

What They Got.

When Artemus Ward died, the press of England and America was filled with tributes to his memory. In New York a meeting of newspaper people was held, at which it was resolved that his memory should be perpetuated. The manner in which this was done was amusingly illustrated by a story told in Harper's Magazine some years ago. Whether or not the anecdote would be true today, we do not know.

A few summers ago I passed a week's vacation at Waterford, Me., and during my visit went to the village graveyard to view the final resting place of Artemus Ward.

With some trouble I found the grave, there being nothing about the plain white slab to distinguish it from many similar ones around. While thinking and wondering that no monument had ever been erected to the humorist, a countryman approached, to whom I said:

"My friend, can you tell me why it is that Artemus never has had a monument erected to his memory?"

"Well, stranger, I guess I kin," was the reply. "You see, arter Artemus died 300 or 400 printer fellers down in New York city got together and passed some beautiful resolutions, saying that Artemus should have a monument, and they would pay for it then and there, and then they took up a collection, which amounted to $20.60, so I'm told, and since then this town hain't seen either the monument or the money; but, stranger, we did get a copy of the resolutions."—Youth's Companion.

The Earth's Millions.

The human family living on earth today consists of about 1,450,000,000 souls—not fewer, probably more. These are distributed literally all over the earth's surface, there being no considerable spot on the globe where man has not found a foothold. In Asia, the so called "cradle of the human race," there are now about 800,000,000 people densely crowded on an average of about 120 to every square mile.

In Europe there are 320,000,000, averaging 100 to the square mile, not so crowded as Asia, but everywhere dense, and in many places overpopulated. In Africa there are, approximately, 210,000,000, and in the Americas—North, South and Central—110,000,000, these latter of course relatively thinly scattered over broad areas. On the islands, large and small, there are probably 10,000,000 more.

The extremes of the blacks and the whites are as five to three, the remaining 700,000,000 intermediate, brown, yellow and tawny in color. Of the entire race 500,000,000 are well clothed—that is, they wear garments of some kind that will cover nakedness—250,000,000 habitually go naked, and 700,000,000 only cover the middle part of the body; 500,000,000 live in houses, 700,000,000 in huts and caves, the remaining 250,000,000 virtually having no place to lay their heads.—Philadelphia Call.

And Job Wasn't In It.

"It is a great consolation at times," said the first sad looking man slowly, "it is a great consolation, I say, to read about the afflictions of other men. Misery loves company, and when one reads what others have endured it makes his own lot seem better."

The second miserable looking man shook his head.

"You haven't tried it," said the first.

"I have tried it," returned the second.

"Well, you didn't read the right kind of literature then. Of course you feel sorry for the people in history who had their heads cut off, but that doesn't affect your case. You want to read about Job."

"I have read of all his sufferings."

"And didn't that make your own burden feel lighter by comparison?"

"Not a bit. He never had hay fever."—Chicago Post.

Java's Boiling Lake of Mud.

One of the greatest natural wonders in Java, "the fire island," a large lake of boiling mud, is situated almost in the center of the plains of Grobogana, 50 "paals" to the north east of Solo. It is almost two miles in circumference, and in the center immense columns of soft, hot mud may be seen continually rising and falling, like great black timbers thrust forth and then suddenly withdrawn by a giant's hands. Besides the phenomena of the columns there are two gigantic bubbles near the western edge which fill up like huge balloons and explode on an average of three times per minute.—St. Louis Republic.

String as a Weather Prophet.

A piece of string makes a simple barometer. Take a piece of string about 15 inches long, saturate it in a strong solution of salt and water, let it dry, and then tie a light weight on one end and hang it up against a wall and mark where the weight reaches to. The weight rises for wet weather and falls for fine. The string should be placed where the outside air can freely get to it.—Boston Globe.

A Miss With a Mission.

"What sort of a girl is she?"

"Oh, she is a miss with a mission."

"Ah?"

"And her mission is seeking a man with a mansion."—Sketch.

The Best Plaster.

Dampen a piece of flannel with Chamberlain's Pain Balm and bind it over the seat of pain. It is better than any plaster. When the lungs are sore, such an application on the chest and another on the back, between the shoulderblades, will often prevent pneumonia. There is nothing so good for a lame back or a pain in the side. A sore throat can always be cured in one night by applying a flannel bandage dampened with Pain Balm. Fifty cent bottles for sale by W. D. Duffin.

KRAUSE'S HEADACHE CAPSULES, unlike many remedies, are perfectly harmless. They contain no injurious substance, and will stop any kind of headaches caused by over indulgence in food or drink late at night. Price twenty-five cents. For sale by H. E. Donaldson, Druggist.

Are Your Children Subject to Croup?

If so, you should never be without a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is a certain cure for croup, and has never been known to fail. If given freely as soon as the croupy cough appears it will prevent the attack. It is the sole reliance with thousands of mothers who have croupy children and never disappoints them. There is no danger in giving this remedy in large and frequent doses, as it contains nothing injurious. Fifty cent bottles for sale by W. D. Duffin.

One Minute.

One minutes time often makes a great difference—a one minute remedy for Bronchitis, choking up of the throat, lungs, etc., of course is a great blessing. Cubeb Cough Cure is such a remedy. For sale by H. E. Donaldson, Druggist.

A Favorite in Kentucky.

W. M. Terry, who has been in the drug business at Elkton, Ky., for the past twelve years, says: "Chamberlain's Cough Remedy gives better satisfaction than any other cough medicine I ever sold." There is good reason for this. No other will cure a cold so quickly; no other is so certain a preventive and cure for croup; no other affords so much relief in cases of whooping cough. For sale by W. D. Duffin, Druggist.

A Remarkable Discovery.

A remarkabe discovery is one of the chronic proclamations of advertisers. CUBEB COUGH CURE is not such, it is an established remedy with known merit, made on scientific principles by experienced chemists. It affords instant relief, and is called the one minute remedy, for it stops coughing at once, does not cure but gives temporary relief to consumptives, and throat, lungs, etc. For Croup, Whooping Cough and colds of children Cubeb Cough Cure is valuable. For sale by H. E. Donaldson, Druggist.

GOOD ADVICE.

Every patriotic citizen should give his personal effort and influence to increase the circulation of his home paper which teaches the American policy of Protection. It is his duty to aid in this respect in every way possible. After the home paper is taken care of, why not subscribe for the AMERICAN ECONOMIST, published by the American Protective Tariff League? One of its correspondents says: "No true American can get along without it. I consider it the greatest and truest political teacher in the United States."

STRICKEN DEAD.

TRUSTWORTHY STATEMENTS.

A recent New York dispatch reads: "James C. H——, a fine looking and apparently healthy man, was observed to stagger while walking on Fifth Avenue this afternoon, and after taking one or two uncertain steps fell to the sidewalk. When picked up he was dead. A physician examined the body, and pronounced heart disease the cause of death. A peculiarly sad feature of the case is that Mr. H—— was on his way to Maine, to settle in the home of his boyhood. He had passed the previous ten years in the western mining country, and had amassed a fortune. If YOU have any of the symptoms given in the following testimonials you should lose no time in seeking relief.

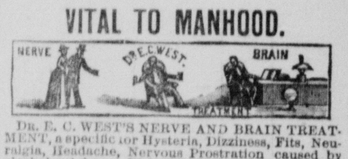

From John L. Roberts, Sherrington, Pa.: "I have suffered with palpitation, irregular pulse, fainting and smothering spells, pain in shoulders, side, and arms for over forty years. For twelve years have been treated without avail by prominent physicians in my neighborhood and in New York. Growing constantly worse, smothering spells followed one another, so my life was often in danger and I needed constant care. As my son had been cured by Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure, he sent me three bottles. The first dose gave me instant relief. Before using the last bottle I was completely cured. Although seventy-five years old I feel twenty years younger. I claim my cure to be almost a miracle."

Here is a letter from Mrs. John Kolges, of Cleveland, O.: "I had been troubled with my heart and stomach for years, but for sixteen months had been confined to my bed. I had four of the best doctors in the city, but none of them could benefit the weakness of my heart. I also had dropsy and rheumatism. I never took medicine that relieved me at once as Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure does. I am much stronger. My appetite is splendid. I gain strength with every dose. I have gained more in six weeks from your treatment than in sixteen months from all the doctors."

"Dr. Miles' New Cure for the Heart is sold on a positive guarantee by all druggists. It is safe, effective, agreeable, and does cure." Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

40 YEARS THE STANDARD.

—The Woman's Christian Temperance Union will meet Wednesday, November 15th, at three o'clock, in the Epworth League room of the Methodist church.

Full of fun, Friday night.

—A couple of Whiteside county culprits last Saturday who were sentenced to ninety days in the county jail, desired their sentence extended to six months. This would nicely tide them over the winter. When a punishment is so palatable that a double dose is desirable by the patient, isn't it about time to change the medicine.

SUICIDE OF AN ESTIMABLE LADY.

This forenoon the sad intelligence was brought from Carroll county by a messenger to Joseph McCleary that the wife of his brother, William McCleary, had early this morning taken her own life. The gentlemen who brought the terrible news is a near neighbor of the family, whom he described as living in the most happy conjugal relation. Mr. McCleary, whose post office address is Fairhaven lives in the country about seven miles from Chadwick, Carroll county, where he has resided ten or twelve years, and where the family are surrounded by a large circle of friends to whom this sad affliction comes with a terriable shock. Mr. McCleary's many friends in this vicinity, his former home, deeply sympathize with him in his affliction. The fearful deed was committed somewhere between midnight and two o'clock this morning, and the only supposable explanation is that the religious affairs and difficulties in the Evangelical church, in which she was deeply interested, may have unbalanced her mind. Besides her husband she leaves four motherless children.

Jule Keen in Only a German. It might be of interest to know that this company carry a large amount of special scenery, and the ladies and gentlemen pay great attention to their parts. Friday night.

St. Paul's Lutheran Church—J. M. Ruthrauff Pastor.

The forty-fifth anniversary of the organization of this congregation; the twenty-fifth of the building of the present church edifice, and the eighth of the present pastorate, was celebrated Sunday, Nov 12th. Notwithstanding the constant rain a large audience gathered both morning and evening. Both the auditorium and Sunday School rooms were handsomely and appropriately decorated. The services began with a joint meeting at 9:45 a. m between the adult and infant departments of the Sunday School, with a report from the Treasurer of the school, Mr. A. F. Robinson, which showed rapid growth in the grace of giving the last few years. Miss Gertie Blackman read a report showing the excellent condition of the infant school. Addresses were made by Dr. O. B. Blackman and the pastor. Mr. W. F. Weaver, Superintendent, presided at this meeting. At 11 o'clock the pastor preached a sermon on "The Lutheran Church." Text, Ps. 48:12 13: "Walk about Zion and go round about her: tell the towers thereof. Mark ye well her bulwarks. Consider her palaces that ye may tell it to the generations following." (We give but an abstract.) After a brief and appropriate introduction the speaker said, we wish to take a brief but comprehensive walk about our Lutheran Zion.

The name Evangelical Lutheran church is derived from the Greek word Evangelian, meaning Gospel, and the sir name Lutheran, from the great leader of the reformation, to distinguish it from other churches. It is therefore eminently scriptural and apppropriate.

The Lutheran church is the mother of all other Protestant churches. While she does not approve of everything that some of the children in haste have said and done; yet she recognizes in all of them the outlines of her own image. And it is gratifying to know that as they grow in age and wisdom that they all hold the mother in greater reverence who gave them birth, and from whose altar they went out.

She has always laid great emphasis upon the Word of God and the Sacraments as the divinely appointed means for the evangelization of the world. Hence, one of Luther's greatest works was to translate the Bible into the language of the people, and was earnestly preached, as it is today, from all Lutheran pulpits. The sacraments are not mere signs, but actual means of grace. "What they signify and promise, that they also convey, to all who believe."

As the Scriptures prescribe no definite form of church government, neither does the Lutheran church. In the Scandinavian countries it is Episcopal, having Bishops and Arch-Bishops. But not as a different order of the priesthood, but an office to which as to the ministry, men must be rightly called. In Germany they have Superintendents. In America, Synods, with presidents elected for certain periods of time. Her government is primarily congregational.

Liturgical forms of worship are not obligatory and great freedom is allowed. Yet she has always held that common forms were necessary to good order, and the highest efficiency in caring for our own, who move from one place to another, as well as to edification. The Lutheran church did not reject the Scriptural chants and collects of the ancient church, but only such parts as were a perversion of the Gospel. Luther, said "it would be beautiful and admirable, if in every territory, the order of service would be the same.,, In this country the five largest general b d s f Lu herans have adopted the common service, which we use, as a most important step to greater unity in organization, and uniformity in worship in the future church in this country. It is almost entirely a rendering of the most beautiful and devotional Scripture passages, and leaves room for the best chants and hymns which the church has or may produce from time to time. Her fruits: (1) Her piety is quiet contemplative, joyous, contented and constant. Dr Phillip Schoff says: "The Lutheran piety has its peculiar charm; the charm of Mary who sat at Jesus feet, and h ar d His word. It has a rich inward life. The Lutheran church numbers her mystics, who bathed in the ocean of infinite love; she has sung the most fervent hymns to the Saviour, and holds sweet, childlike intercourse with the heavenly Father." Some of the most beautiful developments of piety in the world are in Lutheran countries. In Iceland the whole population are Lutheran and are most devout. They have only two policemen for 70,000 people and one of these has turned to literary and poetical persuits to employ his time. In Sweeden and Norway the people are almost wholly Lutheran; they sleep with unbolted doors. At least fifty per cent. of the adult population are regular communicants in the churches, while in this country not a third are members of the church, and certainly not two thirds of those commune regularly. Their public school system is almost perfect; they have very few illiterates. The bible is taught with the catechism to every child in those schools. Almost every family has its family devotions, and yet some people in their blind zeal for denominational growth spend more money to proselyte these people to their church than they do to plant Chirist's kingdom in the darkened continent of Africa. "Physicion heal thyself." (2) The Lutheran church has always been a missionary church. She was conducting large missionary operations in India one hundred years before any English church had a single missionary in a heathen land. She has now 40 chartered missionary societies among the heathen, with 210 000 members.

(3) The first and largest orphan asylum in the world was founded at Halle, Germany, by the sainted Lutheran, Franke. At his death it provided for over two thousand orphants, and was the seed from which all similiar institutions have sprung. In her care for the helpless aged and orphans she leads all denominations. (4). She founded the first Deaconess institution at Kaisenworth, Germany, in 1836. The order has since spread over the civilized world, and has won 65 Deaconess houses, with 8,678 sisters, and 2,774 lapor stations. (5). She consecrates her children to God in holy baptism; indoctrinates them early in the principles of christianty by use of the catechism and Sunday school; and in common with the other churches is establishing young peoples societies in all her churches, and in all languages and nations.

(6). The Lutheran church in Germany has produced the highest standard of intellectual culture ever attained by the human race. Emerson said: "The Germans are the modern Greeks, the intellectual masters of the world." Her thinkers are in the forefront in every problem of mind, and her scholars take the lead in every department of investigation and knowledge. In 1892 America published 4,559 books, France 4000, England 5,735, while Germany 21,271; more than all the rest put together. Germany is the modern Athens; the literary center, toward which the students of all countries flock to complete a cultured education. In 1892, thirty thousand students attended her universities, while only five thousand five hundred attended Oxford and Cambridge, England. Joseph Cook said: "Germany is the most learned nation on the globe. The leading books in every scholar's library are written by Germans." (7). The growth of the Lutheran church is wonderful; it now numbers 50,000,000 in all lands. The last census gave the United States a Lutheran population of 7,107,800, and a communicant membership of about 1 200,000; she now has in this country fully 1,500,000 communicants. Her per cent. of gain during the last decade was 68; more than twice that of the population of the country itself, and much larger than any other denomination. Her schools and colleges are fast taking first rank and are rapidly multiplying. She publishes 150 periodicals, 55 of which are in English; more than any other language. She is building more than one church for every day in the year, and has 300 more churches and 80,000 more communicants west of Chicago than east of it. She has saved the whole north west for protestantism. In view of these facts what a blessed heritage, what a glorious prospect for the future, and what grave responsibilities are laid upon the different branches of the Lutheran church, to gather, train and develop this vast population for Christ, which is destined to become the greatest church in this country. As another said: "The Lutheran church of the future in America will be formed by the fusing of her varied bodies. It will be the purest, strongest body of Lutherans the world has ever seen. The native ones of Germany, Denmark, Finland, Norway, Sweeden and America, when melted, fused and wrought under American conditions, will make the world's best steel."

The music rendered by the choir was excellent and called forth many words of praise. At night they rendered Luther's famous battle hymn, "A safe stronghold is our God," in a most exceptable manner. During the day Thank-offerings were made for the church to the amount of over $356 which will start the congregation upon the new year entirely free of debt.

At 6:30 p. m. the young people's meeting was conducted by Mr. A. J Kay. Over sixty were present despite the weather and the meeting was full of interest.

In the evening service reports were made by the sectary and other societies, giving a history of each from the time of its organization; also the pastor's report during the past eight years, which showed a membership of 270, not counting the absent or inactive members, 249 accessions, 93 infant baptisms, 164 funerels attended, 161 weddings solemnized, $2607 raised for benevolence and $13,702 65 for all purposes. The Sunday school numbers 376 members and raised for all purposes $1,535 11. The Aid Society organized twenty-six years ago, raised for all purposes $1600.10. Report was read by Miss Mae Reuff. Busy Bees organized September 9, 1890. Raised for all purposes $78 34. Report read by Miss Carrie Shothower. The Young Ladies' Mission Band organized October 22, 1887, raised for all purposes $86.14. Report read by Miss Ida Andres. The Endeavor Society organized January 20, 1892, raised for all purposes $69.64. Report read by the Sec'y, Miss Mabel Kay. The Women's Home and Foreign Missionary Society was organized January 7, 1887, raised $1,052 84; $341.28 of which was given to the Dixon church. Report read by the Sec'y., Miss Sophia Andres.

At the morning service letters of greeting were read from Rev. Wm Uhl, Monrovia, Cal., from Rev. D. Harbaugh Colorado Spring, and from Rev. S. S. Waltz, all former pastors of that church.

Mr. Waltz's letter is as follows:

Pastor and Members of English Lutheran Church, Dixon, Ill.

BELOVED BRETHEN —I most heartily congratulate you on the twenty fifth anniversary of the building of your church and the forty-fifth of you organization as a congregation. I rejoice with you in what God has done by this building and through these year. I pray the church may stand in the future as in the past, a living monument, pointing men to their living Saviour and leading them to the Church Triumphant. May every future year of the congregation's history be rich in seed-sewing for the eternal harvest. I cherish no happier memory than that of the years spent with the dear people of the Dixon church. God bless and keep you everyone. Fratenally,
Louisville, Ky., Nov. 7-93. S. S. WALTZ

The sermon, letters, and reports will probably be published in full in another form. St. Paul's church is in splendid condition and its outlook for the future has never been as bright.

In order to estimate the full value of the work of this church from the beginning the South Dixon charge should be added, now served so efficiently by Rev. W. H Hartman; for these churches have swarmed from this one. When we consider that other denominations have but one church on this territory while the Lutherns have four or five, we have by far the largest membership and population of any denomination in the vicinity of Dixon. Surely our heavenly father has been good unto us and blessed us richly, and we have much to spur us on to greater zeal and effort to do his will that we may merit his favor in the future and prove ourselves worthy of so goodly a heritage.

Butterflies' Breeding Grounds.

"It has always been a great puzzle to naturalists," says Mr. Thwaites, "where the Ceylon butterflies go to at a certain time of year. You see them flying over your house and garden in thousands and tens of thousands in one direction—toward the north. This goes on for six weeks or two months, and then they all disappear. Once, when traveling with my sister in the north of the island, we came to a lonely station, and while breakfast was being prepared we went for a walk in the jungle. When we got about 200 yards, in we heard a curious sound like a soft, low continuous whistle.

It is never oversafe to go too far into a jungle, and strange sounds are apt to make you hesitate for a moment. I asked my sister to stay behind and crawled slowly in the direction whence the sound proceeded, and there in an opening in the jungle I found myself surrounded by one solid mass of brown and yellow butterflies. They were assembled by the hundreds and thousands over a large square and about 10 feet high from the ground. So dense was this fluttering mass of insects that you could have taken them by armfuls had you been so minded. The sound proceeded from the movement of the innumerable wings. No doubt the jungle was their breeding place."—Westminster Budget.
